Misfit Independence

POP said that independence was the greatest thing he knew. And when my daddy says a thing it's generally true. It helps a man to triumph for the right and send his foe Up where the woodbine grows. But was it me that it should be? It didn't work that way with me. And this is how it was, you see:

On July Fourth when I got up I'd settled in my mind That I'd be just the freest of the independent kind; I'd have my way all through the day, no matter what should happen. And that is why face down I lie across my daddy's lap. And that is why I cry, "Oh, my!" as he lays on the strap.

BUT SIMPLY PUT ME ON HIS KNEE.
 He told me just at breakfast time to help him feed the cows. And when I said I wouldn't we'd the prettiest of rows. But I was firm, for I was free, Just as he said I ought to be. And then I skipped. Ah, woe is me!

I stayed away the livelong day. And then there was the deuce to pay. For when I got back home that night My daddy's wrath was out of sight. He wouldn't hear a word from me About the pleasures of the day. But simply put me on his knee And gave it to me—one, two, three— From which I judge that while it's clear That independence has no peer For nations fond of liberties. It doesn't do for families. Else pop has gone and changed his mind Or mine was not the proper kind. —Harper's Bazar.

DEWEY'S SPEECH.

Scene on the Flagship the Fourth

After His Victory at Manila.

On the Fourth of July, 1898, says E. L. Young in the New York Journal, Admiral Dewey was up and about at 5 o'clock in the morning.

The Fourth is a great day on a war ship—anyhow, and this being the Fourth right after we had destroyed the Spanish fleet in Manila harbor, every jackie and boy aboard was looking forward to a great time. We had it, and the admiral was in the thick of it from start to finish. The day began with him directing the decoration of the ship. You would have thought the Olympia was a honeymoon ship from the way she was decked out before the admiral was satisfied.

After breakfast Dewey had all the men mustered on the spar deck to hear a few words he wanted to say to them. We brought the color to the cheek of the old man with the heartiness of our cheers.

"You all know, boys," he said, "what the Fourth of July means to us. The country never had a birthday more significant than this, and you may be sure that the share you have had in making this a glorious year in American history will not be forgotten."

"Over yonder, at home, they are thinking of us while they celebrate the liberty that was won for us a century ago."

"You have had your share of work and I have yet to have all the fun that is coming to you on this holiday of ours. We might wish to celebrate Independence day among our own people, and let us all hope that next year we will find our present duty done and ourselves at home rejoicing over a war won and liberty's banner floating higher than ever."

"Men," he concluded, waving his hand toward our flag, "this is indeed a day to celebrate."

Columbia's Great Glory.
 Hallowed the birthday of Liberty's nation; Sacred the flame on her altar that burns;

A tear to the chieftain that wrought her salvation, And flowers to the grave that his body burns.

He who from darkest night Led us to glory's light, Remaining before us our guidance and star.

Rid every troubled sea, Pilot of Liberty, Champion of peace in the ravage of war.

Hail to the name of Columbia's great hero, Which brighter shines forth through the vista of years.

Whist on history's page stands the contrast of Nero, The king of oppression and father of tears.

Then cease the sacred strain; Let echo mock again; Washington rise on each patriot's voice Till all Columbia roars, Swell with their joyous sound, And hail and vaile in the anthem rejoice. —Anon.

A VILLAGE FOURTH.

Description of a Western Celebration by One Who Was There.

The roughly arranged stand was decorated with red, white and blue, and one woman who kindly lent her dew plant, under a glass globe, to decorate the small table at one side. The leading men of the village were interested in the affair and had seats on the platform. The village choir sat at one side, and at the other was the erator of the day. The latter, as the only man dignified with the habilitment of a Prince Albert coat, and with his smooth hair, short upper lip and long prominent chin, it was quite easy to decide, was the "speaker." The brass band, secured from a neighboring town, in uniforms of green and gilt, sat in the parade, which is the center of every well ordered park, and opened the exercises with a patriotic air. There were men with baldheads and women with wigs. A traveling dentist had his car drawn up at one side of the park and was lavish in the use of handbills announcing his trade. If every one at the park who needed to get or leave teeth with him had applied he would have coined money.

The costumes were as varied as the people themselves. While the band played there strolled across the park to the south a party of five two women, two men and a baby. The men had shed their coats. The women were dressed alike in blue plaid cinct skirts, white and gray lawn waists, with bright orange ribbon sashes tied in snug little bows at the back. Their hats were white straw, liberally trimmed with red and yellow tulle and masses of pink and red roses. The distinguishing feature of one was three tiny pink feathers, while the other had three white feathers. One woman was fat and the other lean. One man was young and the other's age might be anywhere from thirty to fifty, for his face was covered with a beard of the Kansas variety. The poor little baby was handed about by all four, and just which two were the parents of the child could not be determined. If the baby had a memory its recollection of that day would be varied, for it had all sorts of experiences.

The grand village choir supplied the music—the soprano high and thin, the alto mild and meek, the tenor fond of his own voice and the bass with a big voice and correspondingly big figure. The anthem done, the squire of the village introduced the speaker, who, with hair brushed smoothly back and his coat buttoned to his throat and one hand thrust between the buttons and the other behind him in true oratorical style, advanced to the front of the platform and was rewarded with a breathless silence. Fourth of July oratory flashed and burned and sizzled, and when with great impressiveness he said he would "rather be right than be king"—waiting for the full sentence to be fully appreciated, he concluded—"of Spain," the little joke received its full meed of applause, and each comrade turned and bowed to the other.—Indianapolis Press.

"SHOOTIN' CRACKERS."

Where Fireworks Originated and How They Are Made.

"Say, Nunc! Jimmy Dale says these shootin' crackers come from China. Is that right?"

"Not strictly. There was a time when nearly all our fireworks, shooting crackers or firecrackers included, came from that country, but now we have large factories in the United States, though the manufacturers give an air of the kind the appearance of Chinese make."

"Is it true that the Chinese were the first to make fireworks?"

"That is not known for certain, Harry. It is known that the most ancient people made fireworks. But it was among the Chinese that the art reached its earliest and greatest perfection. They still know more about it than the most ingenious of western nations. Europe did not know much about the manufacture of pyrotechnics until the discovery of gunpowder."

"Can you tell me how they make shootin' crackers?"

"They are made of strips of soft pasteboard impregnated with some combustible or explosive material. These strips are doubled over several times and then rolled closely around a small piece of composition—that is, powder mixed with sulphur and other things in a hissing sound. Usually a little pure bursting powder is put in before the composition, so that the burning of the cracker is finished by an explosion. A priming string is attached to one end. This is a cord that has been soaked in a solution of saltpeter or similar substance, so that it will burn readily."

"But, say, Nunc, how do they make the snakes and stars and things that come out of rockets when they are raved up in the air?"

"To describe all of the process would require more time than I have to give you, Harry. The snakes are small cases about one-half inch in diameter, in which is a composition of three parts niter, three sulphur, sixteen melted powder, one-half charcoal. This composition is driven in the case, the top of which is closed by plaster of paris, having a piece of quick match. Roman candles, Bengal fires, pinwheels and the like are merely variations of the process of making rockets, with the addition of materials for colored red fires being added."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

PUMICE STONE.

The Best Quality Comes From the Island of Lipari.

We often hear it remarked, and particularly after the eruption of a volcano, that pumice stone ought to be plentiful and cheap, as quantities must have been ejected during the volcanic disturbance. As a matter of fact, however, none of the white stone in general use is obtained from active volcanoes. It comes from the deposits of the article discovered in one or two quarters of the globe, the best of which is at present to be found in the island of Lipari, situated in the Tyrrhenian sea. The island is mountainous in character and consists of tuffs and lavas and of highly siliceous volcanic products. The district where the stone is found is called Campo Felice or Monte Potalo, 1,500 feet above the level of the sea.

After riding a considerable distance, partly along precipitous paths sufficiently dangerous to be interesting and partly through vineyards and over grassy plains, one almost comes suddenly upon a seemingly snow clad valley, inclosed by hills also quite white, and the whole gloriously bright on a sunny day. Into these hills workmen are unceasingly digging deep burrows, working within by candlelight. In their excavations they come across many lumps of pumice stone, which are placed in baskets, subsequently being conveyed along the valley to the seashore, where small boats are loaded and sail to the seaport near by, where the stone is sorted, packed and shipped to distant parts either by way of Messina or Leghorn.

Adirondack.
 The word "Adirondack" comes to us from the language of the Mohawks. With them it was Hade-on-dack and meant wood eaters. This term was applied in derision to a few members of a once powerful branch of the Algonquians, who were defeated by the Iroquois and forced to seek refuge in a fastness of the mountains. They were in great distress, and it is said they sent messengers to their victors asking them to make no further war upon them, as they were reduced to the necessity of eating roots and the bark of trees. A few of them finally escaped to the north, and others were captured and held in slavery by the Mohawks.

The Giant of Lobsters.

The largest lobster ever caught on the coast of America was taken by a Belfast (Me.) fisherman in 1891. It weighed twenty-three pounds and measured thirty-seven inches from the end of its tail to the tip of the long front claws. The monster was too large to enter a common lobster trap, but as the trap was being drawn up it was caught in the netting and safely landed. Many years ago a lobster weighing twenty-two pounds was captured near the same place, and the event was considered to be of enough importance to be given a place in Willimson's "History of Belfast."

Insect Bites.

The London Lancet remarks: "Many people do not know how easily they can protect themselves and their children against the bites of gnats and other insects. Weak carbolic acid sponged in the skin and hair and in some cases clothing will drive away the whole tribe. We have no doubt that gnats and other insects will be protected in the same way from flies, which sometimes nearly madden them."

One View of Love.

Love is really a madness, and I tell you, deserves as well a dark house and a whip as madness do, and the reason why they are not so punished and cured is that the lunacy is so ordinary that the whippers are in love too.—Shakespeare.

The Usual Result.

Little Willie—Pa, I'll be awful glad when I get old enough to do as I please. Pa—Naturally, my son, and when you reach that age you'll probably get married and not do it.

Is Disease a Crime?

Not very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all disease should be treated as a crime. Certain it is, that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain of Nature's laws. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as criminal, must appeal to every reasonable individual as radically wrong.

It would be harsh, unsympathetic, cruel, yes, cruel, to condemn the poor, weak, or erring household who sinks under the heavy load of household cares and burdens, and suffers from weaknesses, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

Present bearing of children, with its exhausting demands upon the system, coupled with the care, worry and labor of rearing a large family, is often the cause of weaknesses, derangements and debility which are aggravated by the many household cares, and the least and neglecting work which the mother is called upon to perform. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only remedy for women's peculiar weaknesses and diseases. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription says that out of the greatest calamities to the child of this class of invalids is the fact that the mother, who is the best nurse, is unable to meet with those in which his treatment fails by reason of the patient's inability to abstain from hard work, long enough to be cured. With those suffering from prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion of the uterus, or other displacement of the womb, it is very necessary that, in addition to taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, they abstain from being very much, or for long periods, on their feet. All heavy lifting or straining of any kind should also be avoided. As much out-door air as possible, with moderate, light exercise is also very important. The patient observe these rules and the "Favorite Prescription" will do the rest.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamp to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorates and regulates stomach, liver and bowels.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

Sonoma, Sonoma County, Cal., June 30, 1906.

H. H. GRANICE, Editor.

The Bond Proposition and Property Valuations

THE INDEX-TRIBUNE invites a free open discussion, pro and con, through its columns of the coming High School bond election. The fact that this paper favors every move having for its object the upbuilding of town and valley, such as we take the issuing of bonds for a new High School building to be, bars no one from expressing views contrary to our own on that or any other public question of like import. This is a free country and every man, no matter how humble he may be in the walks of life, has a right to his opinion in all such matters. But we have opinions, too, and dare to express them editorially and otherwise, but we do not arrogate to ourselves the whole say in the matter. "Many men of many minds" is an old and trite saying, and is applicable in discussing the merits and demerits of the High School bond proposition, as there are, and always will be, two sides to every question.

In last week's issue we are quite sure we made it plain that: First—The bond issue will provide an easy way of providing a High School building, which we ought to have. Second—The plan of issuing twenty bonds of $350 each is an inexpensive way of raising the revenue for the erection of the building. Third—That there is no other way of securing the necessary funds except by direct taxation, which would be a hardship on property-owners.

To these counts in favor of the bond proposition we wish to add another. It is this: Assuming, as a matter of course, that our people wish to see the town and valley advance in the march of progress rather than retreat, it seems but natural that our taxpayers ought to take a broad and liberal-minded view of the proposition and casting aside all self-interest in the matter vote for the bonds on general principles. But mind they are not asked to do this. On the contrary, they do not have to, because a vote cast for the bonds is a good investment and essentially a vote cast directly in the interest of every property owner in the union of districts. The fostering of our High School raises and keeps up property valuations all over the valley and will add and continue to add a desirable element of population to this community. In other words our High School is well worth the investment of $4,000 or $5,000 a year to maintain it. It is a valuable asset to our valley and pays good interest on the investment if one only looks at it in the right way.

Petaluma aspires to become the county seat of a new county. Her location in the extreme southwestern part of the county would seem to dispose of her ambitions in that direction unless a big slice of Marin county be secured for a division. However, unless Petaluma connects herself with the Sonoma Valley by an electric railway, which would make that city accessible to the people over this way, the present county seat is good enough for them. It is only an hour's travel by rail to Santa Rosa, while there is no direct communication by rail with Petaluma at all. However, if the people of Petaluma are really sincere in their aspirations to become the sponsors of a new county with their city as the seat of government we would suggest that they tap this valley with an electric railway. They can then talk division with some hope of the people of Sonoma Valley standing in, for without their co-operation Petaluma can never hope to have her ambitions in that direction gratified.

The insurance companies evidently have made up their minds to pay up their San Francisco losses in full. It looks that way anyhow if one is to judge by the big increase in insurance rates all along the line, which run all the way from $6 to $10 on the $1,000 in San Francisco. In San Jose and other places the increase has been from 30 to 100 per cent. If this does not mean dollar for dollar to the impatient policy holders it certainly means that the insurance companies have stupendous nerve and are grabbing everything in sight in the way of money with the intention of holding on to it, too.

CHAS. O. DUNBAR of the Pres Democrat of Santa Rosa will undoubtedly receive the Democratic nomination for State Senator from this district. Mr. Dunbar is about the strongest man his party could put on the ticket for Senatorial honors, but he will have a task before him to overcome the solid Republican phalanx that will go to the polls next November to vote their ticket, provided the Republican District and County Conventions make no mistakes this year as they have in the past.

THERE is a big row going on in San Francisco over the payment of $6,000 salary per year to each of the three commissioners who are to handle that $6,000,000 relief fund. This is graft with a vengeance and an imposition on the public. Neither of the commissioners ever drew a salary of over $200 per month in their lives, and to pay them $500 per month is down right robbery.

STANFORD WHITE, the celebrated New York architect who was shot and killed in Madison Square Gardens the other evening by an outraged husband, it now transpires was a moral pervert. If press reports be true the world will be the gainer by White's taking off as he was White in name only and black at heart, although to outward appearances he was one of God's noblemen.

THE Petaluma Courier's agitation for a division of the county on the eve of the calling a bond election for raising revenue to build a new court house in Santa Rosa to replace the one destroyed by the earthquake is bad form. In other words, it is taking a mean advantage of an afflicted city which is entitled to the sympathy of the entire county.

PATRIOTISM is at a discount in this town and there will be no public celebration of the glorious Fourth here.

Deadly Serpent Bites.

Following the Flag.

When our soldiers went to Cuba and the Philippines, health was the most important consideration. Willis T. Morgan, retired Commissary Sergeant U. S. A., of Rural Route 1, Concord N. Anti-Bond.

W. H. Switzer, a High School Trustee representing the San Luis district, has sent to this office the following communication bearing on our High School. As both sides of every question is entitled to consideration we give space for his ideas, which, of course, are not in accord with the progressive policy of this paper:

Expense bill of the Sonoma High School for the past year:

Money on hand	$ 500.00
Taxes	3,700.00
Received from State	600.00
Total	$5,800.00
DISBURSEMENTS.
Salary of principal, $130 month	$1,560.00
Assistant principal, $100 per month	1,200.00
Three teachers, $80 each	2,400.00
Incidentals, $100 per month, ten months	1,000.00
Bonds, first year	700.00
Total	$4,860.00

Let me say right here that we came within one vote of having to pay 20 cents on the one hundred dollars taxes last year. Now for the coming year. If we are going to have an up-to-date high school we will have to pay the average salaries that are paid by other high schools, and as the average price paid by the high schools of this State is $155 per month—so said Mr. Montgomery—and as he would not agree to teach longer for his present salary, he expects to receive the average remuneration paid by other high schools, and Mr. Lewis wants an increase in his salary. The expenses for the coming year would be as follows:

Principal, $155 per month for ten months	$1,550.00
Vice Principal, $125 per month, for ten months	1,250.00
Third and fourth teachers, $80 each	1,600.00
Incidentals, $100 per month, ten months	1,000.00
Bonds, first year	700.00
Total	$6,100.00

And all of this expense to teach twenty-three children. It cost just as much to teach a school of twenty-five children as it does a hundred and twenty-five. If we have an up-to-date high school you will have to teach all the different studies that the other schools teach, and as other schools have five teachers, Sonoma must have the same. If Sonoma had seven or eight thousand people in town then she could have a high school of one hundred children. Sonoma's high school is too small to pay over six thousand a year to maintain it. If you want to pay this six thousand or more vote for the bonds.

Both teams will be composed of San Francisco ball-players and a hot game may be expected. The last game having been in favor of the Bellevue, score 9 to 8, the winner of Sunday's game will challenge the Sonoma team for a side bet of $100.

Frank Allen, one of the summer visitors at this place, made a hero of himself one day last week. The horse of Charley La Torres became frightened at an automobile and ran away. As it was passing the Bellevue Hotel, and at the risk of his life, he stopped the frightened steed, which is a credit to him for his bravery, which will be remembered by his many friends in El Verano.

NOLAN CASE COMES UP

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

Sonoma, Sonoma County, Cal., June 30, 1906.

H. H. GRANICE, Editor.

Mohammedan Sects.

Mohammedans divide themselves into two principal sects—Shi'ah and Sunnī, the Persians representing the bulk of the former, the Turks of the latter. The chief points on which they differ are the condition of the soul after death and the succession of caliphs. "The Sunnī belief is that there is one immortal God, whose works are with out beginning or end, and that he will be visible to the souls of the blessed, while the Shi'ahs deny the immortality of the soul and maintain that the co-existent principles of Zoroaster will forever contend for the mastery." With regard to the prophetic succe sors, the Sunnīs claim that the lawful successor of Mohammed was Abu Bekr and after him Omar, Osman and Ali, nephew and son-in-law of Mohammed. The Shi'ahs, however, reject the first three and hold that Ali was the only legitimate successor. Shi'ahs pray but three times a day and enjoy pil grimages to Mecca, Medina, Kazimāh, Meshed (Gersin), Samarra and Kūm as well as to Mecca and Medina. Sunnīs make pilgrimages only to the two lat ter cities and pray five times a day. From this it can be readily understood that the circumstances of the Shi'ahs being in possession of the Shi'ahs of Nejed (Meshed) Ali, Kazimāh and Ker belā is most all-attempting to devout Shi'ahs.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Stay With It.

The first day mother sent me to school I went home at recess, thinking school was out. As I have grown older I find that a whole lot of people did the same thing, and the sad part of the af fair is that too many of us never went back. In life be careful that you don't go home at recess. If you start to learn a trade or profession, stay by it and master it. Don't chase away at recess. If you have a business, attend to it. Don't go home at recess. This going home at recess has sent many a busi ness man into bankruptcy. It has caused mothers' tears to flow and mother hearts to ache. It has made crusty old bachelors and sour old maids. It has filled worlds with ignorance and made barren deserts of fertile plains. Going home at recess means that you have fallen asleep at the switch and your train has plunged into the ditch. Always stay until school is out.—Os borne County (Kan.) Farmer.

The Air of London.

There is no fresh air in the heart of London, according to the conclusions of a recent investigator. He says: "No evidence of ozone was anywhere ap parent except at Brownswood park, in the northeast. It was from the north east quarter the wind was blowing, and the air had lost all trace of ozone before it had reached Hyde park. At Bushey park, although practically a country district, no ozone was present in the air. London had not only ab stracted the goodness out of the air that swept over it, but had added to it the exhalations from the breath and bottles of millions of human beings and of tens of thousands of animals. And some thing within a one or two mile radius of Charing Cross cannot have fresh air entering their dwellings at any time."

Parsee Burial Customs.

A Bombay correspondent, writing of the burial customs of the Parsees, says: "The approach of that transition we call death is a signal for the relatives to leave the presence of the dying one, the priest alone remaining to whisper Zend-Avesta precepts into his ear. He in turn passes out of the room and ad mits a dog, who is trained to gaze steadily into the face of the dying one. A dog is accounted the only living creature that can terrorize the evil spirits, so the 'sacred' or 'dog stare,' is the last sight the Parsee has on earth. No human shoulder must inter vene; otherwise the guardian virtue of the dog's gaze is annulled."

To Scrape an Acquaintance. "To scrape an acquaintance" was origi nated by the Emperor Hadrian. Once when visiting the public bath he found an old veteran scraping himself with a piece of broken crockery in lieu of an iron or copper scraper. Hadrian gave him a sum of money to provide the necessary materials for a bath and on his next visit to the institution found it full of veterans scraping them selves with potsherds. "Scrape away, gentlemen, but you shall not scrape an acquaintance with me," was Hadrian's comment as he went out.

The Poet's Inconsistency. "You speak of the brooks," said the critic as he looked over his friend's poem, "as the most joyous things in nature." "So they are," said the poet. "But you are inconsistent." "Why?" "Because later on you say they are ever murmuring."

Dodging Him.

Mr. Borem: "I didn't see you last Sunday—Miss Cutting—Oh, you must have if you saw me at all. Mr. Borem—I—er—beg pardon, I don't under stand. Miss Cutting—I say if you saw me Sunday you must have seen me last, for I was careful to see you first.—Philadelphia Press.

Severe Case. "How did your sea voyage work, Bigley?" "It was in such a state of collapse when I reached Liverpool that I cab led back to learn whether I had thrown up my job."

Rivals.

Lulu—You should get him to sign the pledge before you marry him. Babs—Why, he doesn't drink. Lulu—No, but he may be tempted to later.

If thou wouldst have a brother frank to thee be frank to him.—Child.

The Very Best Remedy for Bowel Trouble.

Mr. M. Borroughs, an old and well-known resident of Bluffton, Ind., says: "I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as the very best remedy for bowel trouble. I make this statement after having used the remedy in my family for several years. I am never without it." For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Even the lazy man makes at least one strenuous effort to see how little he can accomplish.—Chicago News.

Unknown Friends.

There are many people who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with splendid results, but who are unknown because they have hesitated about giving a testimonial of their experience for publication. These people, however, are none the less friends of this remedy. They have done much toward making it a household word by their personal recommendation to friends and neighbors. It is a good medicine to have in the home and is widely known for its cures of diarrhoea and all forms of bowel trouble. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Too many men seem anxious to give his satanic majesty more than his due.

How to Break Up a Cold.

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. To do this, how ever, prompt action is necessary. The first symptom of a cold is a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Taxes

Poll, road and personal property taxes for 1906 are now due and must be paid to the undersigned or to Frank E. Dowd, County As sessor of Sonoma county, Santa Rosa.

These taxes will become delinquent on and after July 1, 1906. A settlement now will save the penalty which attaches to all such taxes remaining unpaid after above date.

The First Man Dressmaker.

As far back as 1730 there was in Paris a man dressmaker, probably the first of his kind. His name was Rhombert, and he was the son of a Bavarian peasant from the neighbor hood of Munich. He owed his success to his genius for concealing and re medying defects of figure. He drove a beautiful carriage on the boulevard and had an esquire in the shape of a pair of corsets and an open pair of scissors painted on the panel of each door. He left a large fortune to his heirs.

Doctors and Solemnity.

The days are past when every self respecting doctor was expected to dress in a style tastefully blending the di vine with the undertaker. But a "sustained and impressive solemnity" is still a priceless possession for those who would achieve success in medi cine. If this is a natural gift, so much the better; if not, it should be acquired at any cost.—British Medical Journal.

For Its Vocabulary's Sake.

"Indirectly, more forcibly sometimes than directly," said a senator, "a man may be accused." "Thus a good woman of Cincinnati called her cook a gas-tro-ing and said: 'Mary, come and take the parrot out of the bedroom at once. The mas ter has lost his coffee button.'"

The Way of the Law.

A man who goes to law may not be in the poor sutor class when he starts, but is liable to be before he finishes.—Washington Star.

Who rises every time he falls will sometimes rise to stay.—Morris.

Sore Muscles

Prominent athletes throughout the coun try find that the best treatment for sore muscles after severe exercise or hard work of any kind, is a hot bath at bed time, which opens the pores. This should im mediately be followed with an application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm vigorously rub bed into the skin. This liniment removes all stiffness and soreness and has become a favorite rub down, as it acts promptly and keeps the muscles in excellent condition. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Most elopements are due to the fact that there are no wedding presents in sight.

ANCIENT ROME

Is now merely a memory of the past. Bal lard's Snow Liniment is the family liniment of the twentieth century. It is a cure for Rheumatism, Burns, Cuts, Sprains, Neuralgia, etc. Mr. C. H. Runyon, Stan bury, Mo., writes: "I have used Snow Liniment for Rheumatism and all pain. I can't say enough in its praise." Sold by Simmons' Drug Store.

Some people take offense because there is nothing else lying around loose.

THERE ARE FEW

People who know how to take care of their eyes—the majority do not. The liver is a most important organ in the body. Herbine will keep it in condition. V. C. Simpkins, Albu, Texas, writes: "I have used Herbine for Chills and fever and find it the best medicine I ever used. I would not be without it. It was good for children as it is for grown up people, and I recom mend it. It is fine for La Grippe." Sold by Simmons' Drug Store.

Really a Human Being.

The story is told by a man that years ago a missionary made his appearance upon a platform there and that the native orator who introduced him closed with these words: "When I have finish ed a gentleman from the west is going to address you. He is not a foreign demon. His appearance and his cloth ing may seem strange to you, but look carefully at him. He has two arms and two legs, two ears and two eyes, a nose (though a few have none) and I assure you his teeth are made of bone, just like yours. He is really a human being, and I hope you will re gard him as such."

Uncomfortable.

"She didn't speak to her husband for six months." "My, it must have been very uncom fortable!" "Yes—for her."

He who can suppress a moment's an ger may by so doing prevent a day of sorrow for himself and another.—Suc cess Magazine.

DON'T !!!

Don't let your children suffer with that cough which you can cure with Ballard's Horehound Syrup, a sure cure for Coughs, Bronchitis, Influenza, Croup and Pulmo nary Diseases. Buy a bottle and try it. Sold by Simmons' Drug Store.

For your convenience we are printing a coupon which you ought to fill out—it does not obligate you in any way. Send it at once.
